RE: Comments on RM-9242

Dear FCC commissioners,

- There are "communities-of-interest" that get NO progressive Jazz Blues and News in radio PRIME TIME. But RM-9242 proposes to fill this void with a new class of LOCAL CIVIC community radio stations that will have the will to serve these interest groups. This is because in community radio, the audience is also the producer, the DJ, the host. In community radio, we say what is important to us.

- The citizens of Richmond Virginia deserve to have the same diversity of radio programming and local access that other cities enjoy. Richmond deserves to have a community radio station that will allow a broader range of human experience, culture and ideas to be exchanged than is available from existing radio stations. This way we all win. We win BOTH a Full-Time-Fine-Arts WCVE 88.9FM and a community radio station.

- To accomplish greater diversity/representation, Richmond needs more stations providing more competition and variety. Richmond needs more frequencies to be opened up in the "dead" spaces between stations I currently hear. Proposal RM-9242 allows for new "Low Power FM" stations to exist in the "dead spaces". These stations would be of about 300plus watts with a 15-mile range, the minimum area needed for a large enough community for the station to survive but not so big that it infringes on other communities ability to have stations of their own.

- To maintain local access we need local control The proposal before the FCC now, RM-9242, would provide for a "50-mile rule" that restricts ownership and control by any and all interested persons to those who live within 50 miles of the transmitter antenna.
  The "50-mile rule" is key to providing the variety we deserve. Local civic and community organizations have a will to serve "communities-of-interest" that large corporate and corporate-dominated public radio stations do not. Community radio is set up so that I do a show, I say what is important and newsworthy. In this way, all of humanity has a better chance at playing a full role in our democracy.

Sincerely,
Keith Kreyak
