Dear Mr. Kennard,

This letter is to cast my opinion and vote towards endorsing a new class of radio stations — a low-power community radio. Denver has very limited selections when it comes to the radio. I enjoy National Public Radio which is found on 91.3 FM but the remaining choices on the FM dial are all cookie-cutter formatted stations. Giving Denver the choice to have a local community station with no large benefactors or commercial endorsers would promote community participation, low cost advertising for local small businesses and give an arena for local Arts and entertainment. Think of it as the way that public television was meant to be — that was before all of the funding from large corporations. Now the communities have made their "public television" local access cable channels — and admittedly all programming isn't perfect.

Please consider my appeal. If you have a moment please let me know your opinion as to where this is heading.

Thank you,

Sincerely, Jean Wise
