Dear Mrs Ness,

As you are aware by now there is a proposal of rule making before you that would create a new class of FM broadcast station license. The low power FM class would open a world of new fresh programming across this country that has not been had since the early days of broadcasting. I feel this is a necessary service that is LONG overdue. It will give a voice to local communities that is not available with the class of stations on the air at this moment. I know you have heard all the arguments against this service from the NAB. They say that it will disrupt the signals of stations already on the like. They are not willing to admit that the advances in receiver technology in recent years have made this argument obsolete. Please, I urge you to support RM9242. I spent 15 years in commercial radio and i fell the time has come for this. I fear that if you do not support this measure and it fails to pass there will be a fire storm of pirate stations that will come on the air and then we WILL be looking at the days when the competition was waged with who had the highest power. Please sir, again i ask, won't you give RM9242 your support?

Sincerely,

Mitchell Tucker
