

Response to FCC 98-208 Notice of Inquiry regarding Part 15 of the Commission's Rule Regarding Ultra Wide Band Systems.

Our firm uses GPR and EMI systems to investigate subsurface problems involving environmental contamination sites. We have used this equipment in the backyards of people who have been watching TV and using their phones without complaints. We strongly urge the Commissioners to not require people using this equipment to acquire a licence. The power of the equipment is in the milliwatt range which limits the radio transmissions to the general vicinity of the equipment.
