

I am very supportive of the idea to open up low power FM transmission capabilities to communities. This type of radio transmission would greatly enhance community identity and be a benefit to the American public.