

I believe the proposal to introduce these Microstations into the industry would be a Godsend. There are way too many of these massive commercial conglomerates controlling what the public hears and views as entertainment while a great many of us in small markets or simply those of us interested in diverse programming must suffer. As a current college radio broadcaster, nothing would please me more than to reach a wider audience and nothing pleases me more than to hear feedback from the handful of listeners who appreciate the fact that I offer them an alternative to what's currently flooding the airwaves. This proposal must happen for it would provide a much needed boost to us 'minorities' in the music field and would do little if anything to interfere with the mainstream market that commercial radio caters to. I am whole-heartedly for this proposal for the addition of Microstations sharing the FM dial! Thank you.
