

This comment is in response to the FCC considering LPFM radio. I think this is an excellent idea! The public needs new radio stations that will bring some creativity back to radio at a local level. The giant corporations have taken away the ability for the local advertiser to afford commercials on the radio. I would like to see this new service happen ASAP! I know that the NAB and radio station owners don't want this new service because they have a monopoly and want to keep it that way. Let the little guy have a chance to start a low power station!
