

As an American citizen intensely concerned with the fate of Democracy in our media-saturated age, I implore you to permit the legal operation of low-power FM radio stations. Without this change, the free exchange of ideas will be (and already is) limited by the opinion-makers in the exclusive group of radio station owners and operators. For Democracy to flourish, ideas must be shared openly and low-power radio makes this possible.

Sincerely,
Jonathan Lasser