

Low Power and Micro Power Radio is an idea whose time has come. The FCC must make sure that local interests control the airwaves for its entirely local content. It would be a terrible shame if a few large organizations gained control of thousands of micro-power stations. It would be tremendously empowering to have thousands of community based broadcasts around the country. If people are willing to make the commitment to make useful broadcasts and the bandwidth is generally available, they should be encouraged to do so! This would be an excellent step toward helping the FCC return to serving the average citizen rather than the needs of large corporations.
