

I hope low power FM broadcasting will soon be legalized. I do not watch TV and only listen to non-commercial and preferably community radio stations, of which there are none in Houston except for the one recently closed by the FCC. The closing of Montrose Radio 94.9 FM in Houston by the FCC left a big void in my radio listening. Imagine all of a sudden that you cannot listen to your favorite TV or radio program anymore because the government closed your favorite station. Bummer.
