

I would like to express my support for allocating low power FM frequencies to local and community radio broadcasting. The ensured maintenance of airwaves that are non-commercial and open to use for individual and community interests is perhaps the only way of preventing total commercial and government support and consequent control of the radio broadcasting in the United States.