

Gentlemen:

The FCC should not change the current ban on low power radio stations. The radio spectrum is already overcrowded as it is, and more commercial stations (even those of low power) will bump our local community micropower radio stations off of the air.

Sincerely,
Brian K. Durham