

I applaud this effort to legalize and bring order to low-power transmissions. It would be an even better idea to extend this into the digital realm. With the current prevalence of such easy-to-use streaming servers such as icecast (<http://www.icecast.org>), Internet Radio is a reality. Those of us who are hobbyists in this realm would love an officially regulated and sanctioned method to protect our broadcasting rights.