

Low-power FM radio stations would be an excellent addition to most communities. Technology is at its best when put in the hands of citizens. I strongly encourage you to move forward with these proposed rules, especially with the "microtransmitter" class of stations.