

Dear Folks,

Easily-obtainable, low-power FM broadcast licenses are LONG OVERDUE.

In my opinion, the FCC has an obligation to facilitate the broadest possible use of public resources (including broadcast spectrum).

I'd like to see local entrepreneurs, students, and everyone with an interest, empowered to participate in radio broadcast.

The public would greatly benefit (we'd see more, and more creative radio programming, more public interest programming, and increased competition among commercial broadcasters), and would, I think, be very grateful to the FCC.

Regards,

Matthew Benjamin
