

A low power (500-1000 Watt) radio transmission category would be ideal for Logan, UT where I live. It is a "college town" where a large number of residents are concentrated in a central area (around the college campus). I'm sure there are plenty of other markets such as this that could benefit from this opportunity.