

I believe that microradio can help re-establish a community voice that has been waning since the corporate media was given free reign with the Telecommunications act of 1996. Allowing people to take control of the airwaves once again will help restore faith in government. Remember that the airwaves are a public resource, and they should be given back to the people that pay taxes instead of the corporate lobbyists which already control an overwhelming amount.

Thank you."