

Not only should there be low power FM there should also be low power AM...I think in the power range of 10-20 watts like these Travelers Information Stations would be an excellent idea as low power radio also...