Philosophical and Legal Foundations of Commercial Radio

The basic landmark agreement between commercial radio and the people of the United States was established in the Communications Act of 1934 and has become the unifying thread of all telecommunications laws since then. The basic agreement was actually established in the years before.

This important law established basic philosophical principles:
The airways are public property.

Commerical broadcasters are liscensed use the airways.
The main condition for use will be whether the broadcaster served
"the public interest, convenience, and necessity."
