

Members of the Commission:

Allow me to take just one more moment of your time to bring the Low Power FM Service to your attention.

You have been presented with a vast array of technical data. As we all know, data can be made to support whatever side one wishes. It is rather obvious that there are economic reasons, both pro and con.

I wish to present the one last issue -- the one that sums up the question completely.

I want to BE a part of RADIO! I, and others like me, might never make dollar one of profit. We don't care. We want to make radio, like it was intended. We will be happy just to cover expenses. We have no plans of putting "Big Business Radio" out of a job. Lord, to hear the NAB talk, you'd think we were the beginning of the end of radio. If the 1% of profit that we might take away from the Big Guys can do that much damage, perhaps the entire industry should be owned and operated by the government.

I want to play music that my community would enjoy - local artists would have an outlet for their work. I want to carry live sports events for my children's school. I want to put a mike right in front of the local Town Councils, and let them talk to their people without a news department deciding what is and is not of value.

At this point in time, I'd settle for 10 Watts! Just please, don't let this dream die. Look at television today...a land where only the rich and famous can get into th
