

As a supporter of community and alternative radio programming I hope the proposal to support LPFM becomes a reality. Community run radio brings much needed diversity to the FM airways, and low power licenses would help reduce the start up costs in creating more such stations. As a former active volunteer for community radio, I would gladly work with a low power station near my current home.