

The PLC technology represents an intrusion into the HF bands and their current primary users, of which amateur radio is one. Amateur radio provides a pool of skilled operators who possess communications equipment for use in times of emergencies. The PLC technology is not needed and should not be allowed.