

Broadband over power lines will cause a greater risk of harmful interference in some devices, which may cause undesired operation. Interference will be present in Amateur bands and other emergency communications bands.

Interference will enter in homes that will affect from TV sets to life/breath support equipment, if not properly filtered. With the existing cable modems, satellite, and DSL technologies, it's unnecessary to implement broadband over power lines.