

Based on the information presented and the uncertainty of negative impact to other users of the spectrum, I find this technology is a poor choice for modern data distribution.