

I vote no. I'm against it because there are other ways that internet users can obtain broadband (high speed) internet connections, whereas users of the high frequency shortwave bands will have nowhere to turn to escape radio interference generated by BOPL.