

Power lines radiate radio communications interfering energy without added external signal being carried by the lines. Added modulation will only increase the level of interference generated by the lines (antennas).
NO on PLC.