

Presently I am experiencing excessive power line noise on my hf radio and TV. I had to resort to a satellite rx. for tv. By adding additional potential noise components to the power line grid could totally put my amateur radio station off the air. Please consider the consequences before making a gigantic mistake