

I am a radio Amateur for more than 55 years, and I am very concerned about the possible interference to our operations from the use of Power Lines for internet. When in my automobile I listen to AM Radio and currently there is a large amount of interference to reception as one drives. I assume this is radiation from computer systems. The AM stations all have in excess of 2 mv/m grade signal (I worked in Broadcasting more than 50 years)