

If they don't interfere with me, I won't make them stop. If I get a raised noise floor, I will file complaints, frequently, for every geographic location wherein I experience the interference.

I will fight to prevent the same happening to the ether that has happened to music concerts and the night sky. I won't have loud rude power lines join loud rude mouths and visually loud rude outside lights, in masking the fine details.

I don't care what you let them do, as long as it doesn't interfere with licensed services.
