

With the prolific coverage of power line wires, BPL offers some serious interference problems with radio transmission, should it be run on a wide spread grid. Amateur Radio HF communications resources must be protected and kept viable and free of any avoidable interference. BPL in its present form would jeopardize those resources. I hope that this method can be refined to run on power lines without the HF destructive interference.