

Dear FCC Personel; I am concerned about the effects of broadband transmission over power lines effects on amateur radio. The industry itself has shown concern in the possible interference of amateur transmissions. Isn,t this a conflict with part 97? In addition, the overseas tests have demonstrated some conditions that would be difficult to overcome. Finally, in Japan, after extensive research, broadband transmissions were outlawed outright. Please carefully consider the ramifications to the disruption of emergency services provide by the amateur community. Thank you. Gregory S. King