

As both a ham radio operator who is interested in AM operation, and as the chief engineer for a three AM cluster of stations in the Minneapolis/St. Paul area, I believe broadband over power lines would be a bad idea as it would adversely affect both medium wave and shortwave reception. It was tried in Europe and found to create more problems than it solved. Please let us not try it here.

Sincerely,

Scott Todd