

As an active radio amateur (call AK6I) I am concerned that if BPS is adopted that there will be effective monitoring of real-world deployment to limit unwanted interference to HF services.

I think it is important that operating rules also it clear who is responsible for correction of problems to avoid finger pointing between (e.g.) the power utility, the power line owner and the data service operator.