

I think it's a great idea for those of who live far from major metropolitan areas and have limited high speed alternatives for connecting to the Internet. The sooner the better