

Concerning BPL: It took me several years to find a location that was perfect for my amateur radio station. This site also would be come our permanent home. I found the perfect location because it was far away from neighbors and very quiet as far as power line generated noise. This was very important to me since it would enable me to hear the weakest of signals. If BPL is allowed to happen it will ruin everything I have worked for. It will ruin it for a great many amateur operators. I put a lot of money into the property I bought and I have a lot of money invested in my amateur radio equipment, towers and antennas. I would hate to have to deal with the interference that BPL is sure to cause. I may even get out of the hobby because it would not be worth it to sit and listen to broad-band interference and be able to hear only the strongest signals. Please, do not ruin our hobby.
