

The proposed use of power lines for broadband service for the internet will effectively render the high frequency radio bands useless for amateur radio. Amateur radio has been the backbone of emergency communications for about 90 years and it will be a great tragedy to disrupt it solely for profit of commercial interests. Thank you