

I regard to PBL regulation I am firmly against this technology for a number of reasons.

First I am an Amateur I have serious concerns with a technology that will virtually render the 2-50 MHRZ bands totally useless. Second as an emergency radio operator the effect on the HF bands would seriously limit the abilities in an emergency the abilities of using the HF bands for use by emergency responders in an emergency.

Third, Why would we attempt to even think about using a technology that both Japan and Europe have dropped because the problems with intermod interference outways the good it would cause.

I urge you to please reject this docket on it's merits and not to just pass it through.

If you have any thoughts about this technology and it's problems just use the internet and look at the ARRL webpage they have an excellent research paper on the subject.

Thank you
