

There is a growing body of data that suggests that BPL will be substantially disruptive of radio communications in the 2-90 Mhz spectrum. This will adversely affect not only amateur communications but those of other services using this spectrum. Based on what I have seen and read, I believe BPL is a bad idea. Certainly further intensive evaluation of it and its impact on HF communications is essential before it is allowed to be implemented.