

With regard to the BPL(03-104} NOI, I do not know what I can add to the comments already filed against the worst idea I have ever heard of mentioned favorably by a regulatory commission. That said, it is my experience as a licensed amateur radio operator for nearly forty years overseas and in the states, that the places where I could not operate effectively or communicate with like amateur stations experienced high levels of power-line noise. My current home out in the country was carefully chosen after I retired (Lt Colonel, USA) to be noise free. BPL will ruin ham radio and short-wave listening world side. Please listen to your professional staff and kill this misguided proposal. WA5OMD
