

Hello,

Just a small note regarding the Broadband over Powerline (BPL) solution that has recently been proposed. As both a licensed HAM radio operator and also a network administrator/IT consultant, I see the potential issues on both sides of the matter. One concern that I have is broadband is already available to almost everyone that wishes to have it, through regular methods such as DSL and Cable internet. Increasing the spread of broadband will do very little to increase the adoption, since the market has already reached the peak.

Ryan Kramer
KC0LMO
Space.edu Webmaster