

Randy Cunningham, Congressman from California has stated that amateur radio is vital because it is the only emergency service that requires no infrastructure. BPL in it's present form would destroy the natural resource that allows for HF communications in the same manner that strip mining would destroy Federal lands. Given the fact that alternative broadband mediums exist today, the FCC should encourage internet growth in those existing mediums and retain an even higher level of purity of emissions for power lines. No BPL.