

Get real, power line noise is already bad and the power companys won't do anything about that, all we need now is more noise in our receivers to make our radio service worthless. If you were hams you wouldn't like it either.