

I am against the use of power lines for broadband transmissions, and I think it is for the use of big business without considering the needs of others. It has the potential to disrupt a lot of ham radio use and should not be put into use.