

BPL is long over due. Customers are paying too much money for broadband service. By allowing power companies to offer broadband, cable and telephone companies will be forced to upgrade their technologies resulting in better services and lower costs for consumers.