

Please think again about using power lines for Broadband transmissions. The resulting interference would be extremely detrimental to amateur radio, which, as well as being a hobby is a very important public service in times of emergencies.