

Hello,

While Broadband over Power line has a great deal of promise, it should not be done at the expense of amateur radio. Current BPL technology generates too much interference in amateur radio frequencies. Amateur radio needs to be preserved as a hobby and a vital emergency communications network. BPL technology should not be rolled out until the interference problems are eliminated.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter,

Robert Leider