

I have been a HAM for only 13 years, but have been enjoying HF radio for more than 50 years. There is enough interference from other sources at the present time. Allowing the amount of interference that BPL would generate would be disasterious to both the emergency use, military and other RF communications on the HF bands.