

The only way I will ever have broadband service is through the power company. Many of us in rural America have no chance of obtaining either cable or telephone company broadband. The phone company told me that I would never live long enough to see it. The power company is our only chance to participate.