

As an amateur radio operator, I am dismayed at the thought of broadband being allowed on powerlines. The leakage in the FR spectrum will be severe at best. Broadband on powerlines will be the death of amateur radio as we know it, and the death of one more area we have scientific knowledge in, one more area we share with our children, and we place ourselves one more step below the rest of the world when it comes to education our kids on science.

Please save an American tradition, an American resource, and a font of American knowledge, please stop broadband over powerlines. Thank you.
