

As an Amateur Extra(KC2EKI) I must express my concern and disagreement with BPL. There are many many options for users to gain access to network services without implementing one that clearly has devastating consequences to others that currently use services which are likely to be negatively affected.

As is typically the case, this is another example of an enterprise blindly seeking to make profits at all costs with absolute disregard for those who are not only dis-interested in their product but are also likely to be negatively affected as well.

Without some form of shielding to mitigate the dirty emissions that will result, I am absolutely against BPL. Amateurs and broadcasters alike are prohibited from causing interference and BPL should be no different.
